LAUGHTER LINES

A little boy was attending his first nuptial Mass.
Afterwards his cousin asked him "How many women can a man Marry?" "Sixteen", the little boy replied.
His cousin was amazed that he was able to answer so quickly.
"How do you know that?" "Easy" he said. "All you have to do is add it up, like Father Smith said. 4 better, 4 worse, 4 richer and 4 poorer." AMEN.

The vicar came to call the other day and said that at my time of life I should be thinking of the hereafter.
I told him I do that all the time—in the kitchen, in the dining room and upstairs; I say to myself, now what am I here after!!!

Hidden Qualities

Two feisty old ladies were gossiping on a park bench outside the town hall where the annual flower show was in progress. The thin one leaned over and said: "Life is so dull. We never have fun anymore. For a fiver, I'd take my clothes off and streak through that stupid boring flower show!".
'You're on!' said the other old lady, holding up a £5 note.
The first old dear slowly wriggled out of her purple dress and slithered out of her tea-coloured tights and completely naked, streaked (as fast as an old lady can) through the front door of the flower show.
Waiting outside, her friend soon heard a huge racket erupt inside the hall, followed by loud applause and shrill whistling.
The smiling naked old lady came through the exit door surrounded by a cheering crowd.
"What happened?" asked her friend.
"I won first prize as Best Dried Arrangement."

True worth

Part of a letter from an old friend

"You know dear, we old folk are worth a fortune—silver in our hair, stones in our kidneys, gas in our stomachs and lead in our feet."
